Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-19 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding claim 1, Clelland et al (US 5,832,372) discloses a device comprising a housing defining a housing aperture; a RF circuit disposed within the housing; an antenna; an electrical conductor disposed within the housing. Clelland, however, fails to specifically teach that the electrical conductor having a first portion and an opposed movable second portion, wherein the first portion is coupled to the RF circuit and the second portion defines an antenna contact point and a testing point spaced from one another, the testing point aligned with the housing aperture and the second portion normally biased to couple to the antenna through the contact point.

Claims 2-14 are allowed for depending on claim 1.

Regarding claim 15, Talvitie et al (US 2001/0023176 A1) teaches a method to temporarily disconnect an antenna fixed to a wireless device from circuitry internal to the wireless device. Talvitie, however, fails to teach the specific steps of locating a flexibly resilient convex membrane along an outer surface of a wireless device housing; depressing the flexibility resilient convex membrane with an electrical testing probe to disconnect an antenna from the internal circuitry.

Claims 16-18 are allowed for depending on claim 15.

Regarding claim 19, Talvitie et al teaches a method to temporarily disconnect an antenna fixed to a wireless device from circuitry internal to the wireless device. Talvitie, however, fails to teach the specific steps of locating a removable cover along an outer surface of a wireless device housing; removing the cover to expose an aperture through the housing; inserting an electrical testing probe to disconnect an antenna of the device from the internal circuitry by depressing a portion of a flexible electrical conductor; and removing the testing probe from the aperture and replacing the cover over the aperture.

3. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

- Patent 6,459,287 B1 discloses a device comprising attachable/detachable probe.
- US 2004/0175978 A1 discloses a connector probe for testing an inter circuit of a mobile telecommunication device.
